

Janvier 2004, Phil Marso publia un blasphème dans la littérature française : Pa sage a taba v.o SMS ! C'était le premier livre au monde en langage SMS abrégé. A l'époque, cet ouvrage avait fait sensation et l'auteur était prédestiné au bucher des bien-pensants. Après quelques témoignages d'orthophonistes et d'un prof allemand enseignant le français à Berlin, Phil Marso inventa la Phonétique Muse Service (PMS). Après les fables de la Fontaine, le dernier jour d'un condamné de Victor Hugo en PMS. L'auteur Phil Marso propose une ébauche du livre le plus lu dans le monde : La Bible. Voici une première partie de « l'Evangile selon Saint Matthieu » issue du Nouveau Testament, traduit par Augustin Crampon (1904). Cet ouvrage comporte les 14 premiers chapitres en écriture P.M.S.
