

Julius is passionate about growing, learning, and cooking delicious food. The Alphabet of Endangered Flavors is an artful exploration of over 250 endangered American flavors in the form of fruits, vegetables, nuts, livestock, and grains. Drawings, collages, cutouts, and photographs by Blake Adair Bachman are a starting point for exploration of these flavors. The coloring book meets coffee table books is fun for all ages. As we dive deeper and deeper into the food movement it only makes sense that we work on expanding, supporting, and exploring the diversity available to us. In terms of story, a carrot or head of lettuce from the market might not give us much to tell, but behind each of these flavors listed in Julius Childs Alphabet are untold adventures for you and your loved ones.
