

Let The Chips Fall is the second in the Michael Bianco series. Follow Michael's life and all of its twists and turns. Michael Bianco came through that horrible weekend and turned horror and misfortune into money. He took over his firm Holden Tate and Smith and built it into a dynamic little Investment Banking powerhouse. His girlfriend decides to get kinky to spice up their life and takes it to the extreme. Michael reacts as only he knows how but then hooks up with his assistant after living for two years under the rule of Don't shit where you eat. His sister's husband is killed by police in a bad situation and she turns to Michael for help. Michael introduces her to lawyers who believe she is entitled to money in a wrongful death suit. His sister starts living life in the fast lane before she even gets dime one. Suddenly someone in his firm is killed as he is in the middle of negotiations to sell the company for a lot of money. He takes it in stride and forges ahead to complete the sale. He invites the buyers and a group from his firm and his sister down to an island off the coast of Jamaica to celebrate the sale and his windfall. One by one the party gets depleted as the partygoers meet unfortunate deaths. Gruesome, shocking, funny, visual. Come along for the wild ride and see if Michael can again escape death using his brain and moxie.....
