

FIND OUT HOW TO LESSEN THE BURDEN ON YOUR FAMILY WHEN YOU DIE. As a Trauma Intervention Volunteer with Victims Inc., a large part of my responsibility is to assist family members facing difficult decisions when a loved one is seriously injured or dies. Far too often, I witness families making the tough decisions when a loved one has not made their wishes known or failed to update information as their life progressed. That is why I have written this book with passion. It is inevitable that one day we will all die. Birth always leads to the same result of death. Death is a natural process that happens to everyone. The timing is seldom predictable. Planning for end-of-life is something no one wants to think about or discuss. It is like having a Voodoo curse on you. It makes you aware of your mortality. At age 25, no one thinks he or she will die anytime soon. That is not so. The loss of a parent, child, friend or relative is traumatic. When death happens, families are left grieving and trying to make sense of what occurred. They are suddenly responsible for getting things in order, arranging for a funeral or cremation and finding all the documents needed for the Probate Court. The information in this book is for everyone 18 or older. In this book, you will read about experiences of people who found themselves in very difficult situations when their loved one suddenly died and left them to face the ramifications of death alone; even though I am sure that was not their intent. What should you do now to make sure that your loved ones know your funeral wishes, financial details, insurance details, important document locations, Will and Last Testament, attorney contacts and other important information is in place when you die? This book, "Send Me the Flowers before You Die" was birthed with the intention of lessening the burdens that come with the death of a loved one. The anxiety, overwhelm and stress of all the paperwork. Why not be prepared and spare those left behind. It is their time to grieve. This book will guide you in the process of making all your wishes known to your loved ones, relieving them of very difficult decisions and expense.
