Not illustrated. 1858 Excerpt: ...of this phenomenon is well understood, if it has not yet been reduced to measure. The next curve shows us plainly the middle bay, having Hatteras for its south-western cape, and Smiths Point, or Weeweeder, for its north-eastern entrance. The form of the shore is less favorable to regularity, but the result is nevertheless well marked. The interference of tidal waves which takes place off Nantucket tends also in a degree to confuse the results. The chart shows how simple the system of cotidal lines is in the three bays, running nearly parallel to the shores. The eastern bay lies between the eastern part of Nantucket (Siasconsett) and Cape Sable, Massachusetts Bay being subsidiary to this. The tide wave entering the eastern bay follows the deep water, and thus the cotidal lines take generally the directions of the shores, until the tide wave enters the Bay of Fundy. The most probable form of the cotidal lines from XI. to XV. hours inclusive, is shown upon the chart, which is merely an extension of the chart of cotidal lines of the United States coast formerly presented to the Association. The heights increase rapidly from Nantucket to Cape Cod, being 2.2 feet at Siasconsett, and 9.2 feet at Provincetown. At Cape Ann they are nearly of this same height, and increase in passing up and into the bay to 10.0 feet at Boston, and 10.1 feet at Plymouth. The height at Newburyport is probably local, depending upon the position of the tide gauge. There is but little change from Portsmouth to Portland, and from Cape Sable to Ellen woods Island. Soon after passing Mt. Desert on the west side, and Ellenwoods Island on the east side, the tide wave has turned into the Bay of Fundy, and the rise increases with extraordinary rapidity. Shall we look to the greater bay betwe...
