

Australia is a huge country. If you show up without a plan of which part to visit, you'll waste time deciding what to do and possibly waste money by not booking in advance. Australia is in the southern hemisphere so the seasons are opposite to the seasons in the northern hemisphere. They have winter when North America and Europe have summer and summer when North America and Europe have winter so Christmastime is summer for them. Most of Australia has a temperate climate. Snow is rare, even in the winter. The northern part of Australia is quite hot, almost tropical. The seasons there are rainy, the wet time lasting from November to April and the dry time from May to October. The Australians take their vacations during their summer vacation which is between late November to February. This is their busy travel time, the worst time for a foreign tourist. It's much cheaper and less crowded to travel any other time but these months. Australia is expensive. The air ticket is expensive right off the bat because it's so far away. Get some Australian cash before you go. The flight to Australia could be as long as 24 hours. If you are traveling cheaply, use the hostels that are located everywhere. Australia's electricity is on a 220-240V system which is different from North America's 110V system. If you bring electrical products, buy an adapter which converts the plug shape to fit Australian sockets and a converter to regulate the voltage. The outback can be dangerous both for the bad roads and the isolation. If you break down, the heat can get to you. For emergency fire, police, or medical help, dial 000 on any phone. Most people in Australia live on the coast. Much of the country is a semi-desert area called the outback full of farms, a few national parks and empty spaces. Ayers Rock could be the most famous rock in the world, a big rock in the middle of nowhere that people walk up even though the natives don't want them to. Bruny Island Tourism Bruny Island is south of Hobart, Tasmania. Canberra/Australia Capitol Territory Tourism Canberra is the capital city of Australia. It's a planned city, built according to a plan.
